Means of Transport & Rules for Road safety

Means of Transport

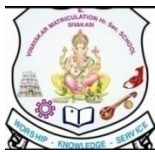

Means of transport are the ways by which we move people and goods from one place to another. Long ago, when none of the modern means of transport were there, people had to walk long distances. Later, they began using animals and then wheeled carts to carry people and goods. Now there are three main modes of transport.

LAND TRANSPORT

- ❑ The forms of transport that move on land, such as buses, cars, scooters, and trains, are called land transport.
- ❑ Animals are also an important means of land transport.
 - ❑ In deserts, camels are used to carry people and goods.
 - ❑ In forests, elephants are used to carry wood.
 - ❑ In hilly places, mules and ponies are also used as means of transport

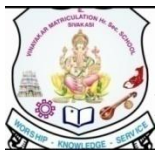

WATER TRANSPORT

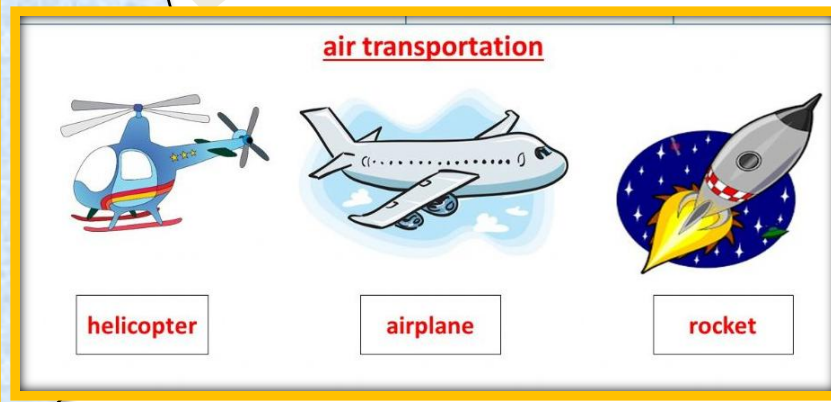

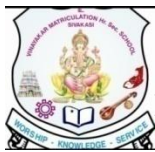

We use boats, ferries and ships to carry people and goods across water. We usually use boats to cross rivers and ships to cross seas. Water transport is slow, but it is one of the cheapest ways of transporting heavy and bulky materials like machines, food grains, oil and coal.

AIR TRANSPORT

Aeroplanes and helicopters fly in the sky. Aeroplanes are the fastest, and one of the most expensive, means of transport. We use aeroplanes when we need to travel over long distances. We also use them when we want to reach a place quickly

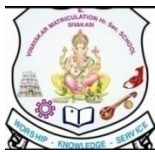

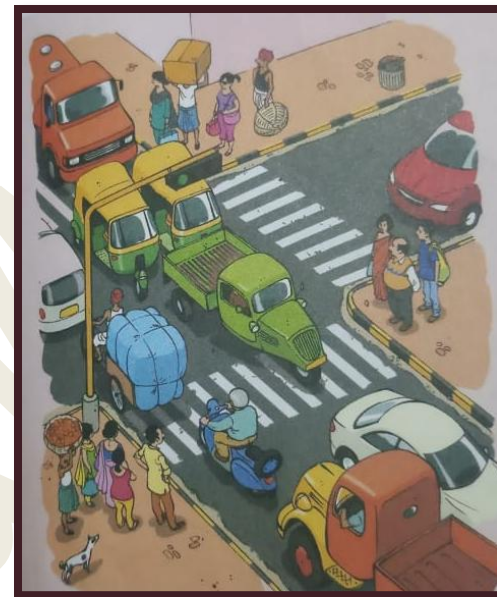

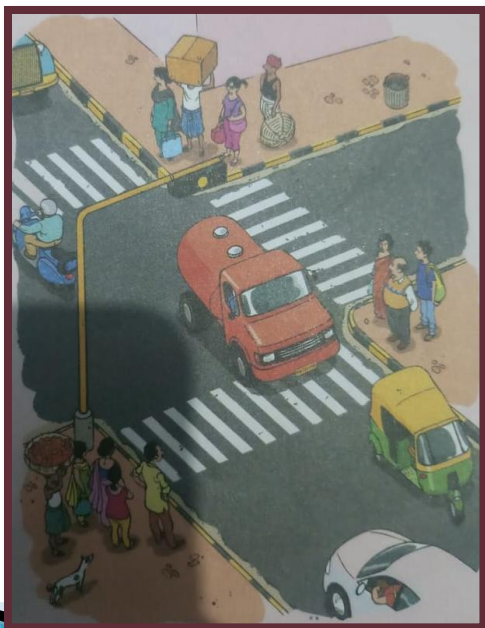

Rules for Road safety

We will learn about traffic lights and what they mean. We will also learn about how to safe on a bus. Before crossing a road, we should look at the traffic lights. Traffic lights tell us when it is safe to cross a road. There are three traffic lights.

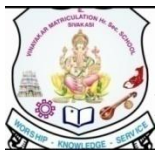

When the lights turn green, traffic can move. People cannot cross the road now. They should wait

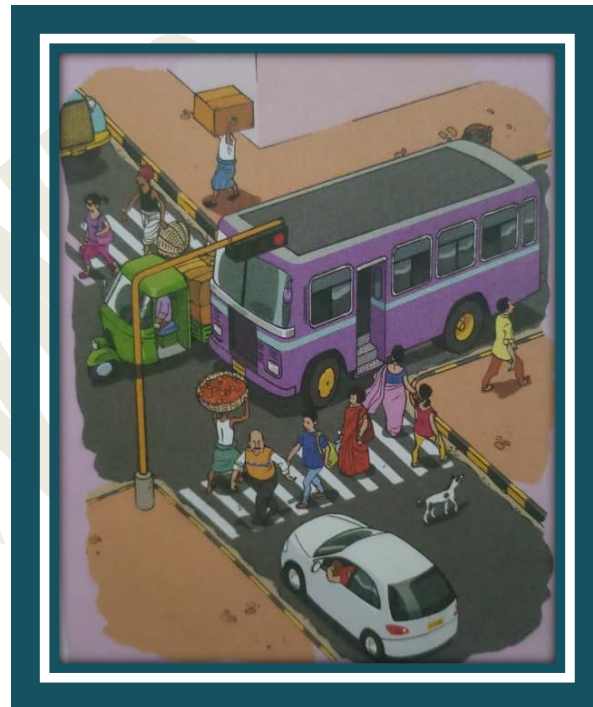

. When the lights turn yellow, traffic should slow down and get ready to stop. However, people should still wait to cross the road.

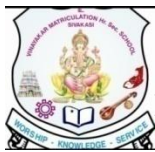

When the lights turn red, traffic should stop. People can now cross the road safely.

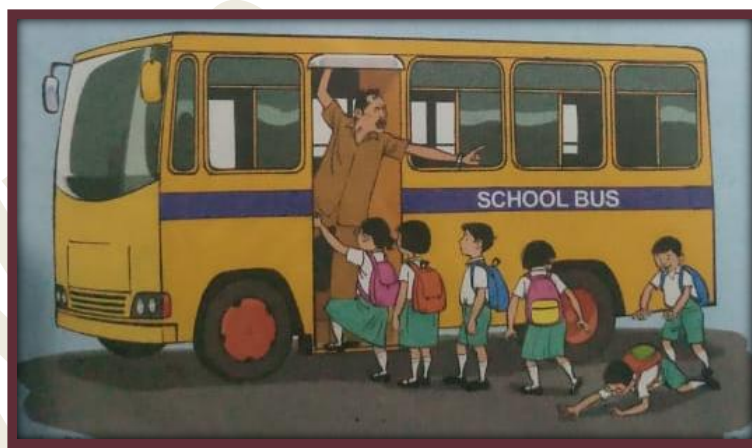

On the bus:

While travelling by bus, we should all follow some safety rules so that nobody gets hurt.

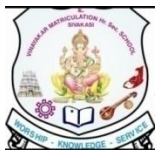

While getting on or off the school bus, always wait for your turn. Do not push others. They could fall and get hurt.

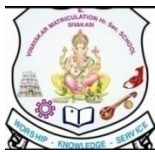

Do not lean out of a moving bus. Do not put your hands out of the window. Other vehicles could hit you and you could get hurt.

Remain seated till the bus stops completely. You could fall down and get hurt if the bus stops suddenly.
